Whose Wedding is it Anyway?

As high-stress jobs go, wedding coordinator ranks right up there with bomb-squad technician. After all, the gig requires nerves of steel, the ability to handle potentially explosive situations--and the understanding that with one false move, you could be looking at a very big boom.

Don't believe us? Just check out Whose Wedding Is It Anyway? on the Style Network. This revealing reality series digs deep into the hectic lives of party pros as they scout locations, juggle seating charts and dole out tissues to blubbering moms.

Married Away

What if you could spin a globe and pick any spot in the world for your wedding? Would you choose some place warm and sensual, like Tahiti, or somewhere crisp and snowy, like a mountaintop in the Austrian Alps? Either way, you wouldn't be alone in your nomadic nuptials. Nowadays, destination weddings are the hottest trend in event planning, and the "where" of the wedding is almost as important as the "who!"

The new Style Network series Married Away follows two couples, their families and their wedding planners all over the world in search of the perfect wedding, capturing all the joy, unpredictability and drama of having the "Big Day" far away.

Uniting two families in holy matrimony is one thing, but bringing together two very different clans in a distant locale is quite another. Between the planning, the culture clashes and the jagged nerves, there's room for plenty of high drama. Because when unfamiliar languages, cultures and traditions come into play, executing a wedding can be quite a challenge!

Join us for "I do" adventures in such varied getaways as Curaçao, Buenos Aires, Tuscany, Santa Fe, Jackson Hole, Puerto Rico and more. Wherever the big event, Style is there to capture every juicy moment of the action. The romance, the nerves, the glamour and the squabbling -- it's all part of being Married Away.
